Persecuted Church: Nigeria

The Nigerian army announced on April 18th that one of the school-girls who had been abducted from the town of Chibok more than a decade ago has been safely rescued. The statement issued by the military provided a photo of Lydia Simon, who is five months pregnant, along with three children whom she gave birth to while in captivity. No further details were given surrounding Lydia's rescue, other than the fact that she was found in the community of Ngoshe. At last report, the young woman was yet to be reunited with her family.

In 2014, a total of 276 girls were abducted by Boko Haram militants while at their secondary school which is in a predominantly Christian town. While many students have escaped, it is believed there are approximately 90 victims who still remain missing today. Since many of the recovered girls were forcibly married to their captors, they may be at risk of the cultural stigma associated with their pregnancies or having borne children during captivity. The attack on Chibok is just one of the many kidnapping incidents perpetrated by militant Islamic groups in Nigeria.

Missionaries: Edward S

Thank you everyone who has been praying for my CRA situation. I have received a letter last Friday which unfortunately states that they are rejecting my appeal to have my 2021 ministry expenses accepted. Thankfully Jason Krueger, one of our TEL board members, introduced me to an accountant who deals with a lot of charities, and he was kind enough to speak with the board and give them insight in how to possibly assist me in re-cooping those expenses.

Thank you to those who have been praying for me in regards to the steep bookkeeping learning curve that I am on. I am happy to report that both the February month end and fiscal year tasks went fairly smoothly. I now have most of the protocols written up, although I am still not confident in applying some of them. I will continue to work on improving my knowledge.

Please pray with me, that I would gain clarity on whether a visit to China should happen this fall.
